-In each of those cities I wrote a short novel.....

In one of the cities of Italy, there lived a very happy family. There were two sisters who loved each other. Sister Belin was a lawyer and always aspired to the highest, and the younger sister Sarah was studying in high school and was about to take the university entrance exam. Her sister Belin was helping her with that, but she did not know much that her younger sister Sarah was hiding many things from her.

Her close friend named Engin knows everything about the case because Pelin was talking about the case a lot. The culprit is the deputy's brother and was under the supervision of attorney Pelin. He was with her every step of the way so that they could find out who the culprit is, but so far we don't know who the victim is. From here, Pelin's war will begin when she finds out who the victim is???

The forensic medicine came and asked the lawyer and the deputy to identify the victim. When the lawyer knew who the victim was and did not see her face, he said Sara Erguvan. This was the shock. Belin was deeply shocked when she heard her sister's name. When she opened her face, it was her sister. Belin did not know what to do. Her legs could not carry her. Belin could not breathe. She said, "The culprit I was defending is my sister's murderer. How did my sister die?" Many questions ran through my head. Belin, what happened? How did this happen?

She went to the perpetrator angry, but the perpetrator did not know that she was her sister. She got angry with him and said to him: "I will put you in prison and you will not see the sun again. I will make you regret what you did." Belin went to Engin and told him what happened, but Belin did not give up. The deputy came and said to her: "Please listen to me. There are things that are not right. My brother does not kill anyone. Her brother was defending her soul because at the time of Sara's murder he was at home and they saw it from the home cameras." Actress and lawyer Belin united and defended the perpetrator, but his family could not bear it and got angry with Belin. How could she defend her sister's murderer!!!! Belin knew what she was doing.

Belin went to her friend Engin's house and while she was sitting in the kitchen she found a drawing on the table, she was surprised how my sister's drawing reached my friend's house, but here came the shock, Belin suspected strange things that happened in the house and her sister was here, and this is true and will change the course of the case. Two days ago, on the day of the incident, Sara went to Engin's house to talk to him, she asked him for money and when he refused, a quarrel broke out between them, Engin is a nervous and mentally ill person, he could not bear it and hit Sara on the head so she fell to the ground and died, Engin's father came and witnessed it and said we will hide the evidence and throw the victim as if nothing had happened, Belin made a plan with the deputy and sent a message to Engin to the scene of the incident, she said I know you are the culprit give me the money so I don't talk, Belin hid in the corner to see who would come. And here came the shock when she learned that this was her friend, she went crazy.. She was going to hold her accountable, but the deputy caught her and told her this is not the right time, and we do not have any evidence that he is the culprit, and this way we will release him and he will escape.

When she was collecting the evidence, she went to scold Engin and said to him, "How did you do that? I never thought of stabbing myself in the back." Engin was crying and feeling very sad. She said to him, "Don't cry... don't cry. If my sister's killer turned out to be someone so sick that he hugged me, someone so heartless that he comforted me, someone so bad that he walked with me, I never thought about what I would do. Now you choose what I will do to you?"

Pelin shouted at Engin and said to him: "Why did you do this? Who are you? Who are you to kill my sister? She was young and had dreams. She was going to go to university." She said to him: "I will not let you go out. You will go to prison for the rest of your life. I will punish you severely." The police came and arrested Engin and justice was done.

When Belen lost her sister, her enthusiasm ended, but she did not give up and stood against everything alone and said: "I will defend all the wronged victims." She no longer believed everyone. Everyone became for her a person she could not trust. Those who betrayed the people closest to them will not know what is inside everyone.

The End

What we call the beginning is often the end. The end is where we always start.
